Dec. 12, 1985

Dear Sir:

A friend of mine from this village recently received a Xmas parcel from Canada from a pen pal whose husband is in your Air Force. By way of packing, there was a copy of Voxair dated Oct. 30, 1985, the Remembrance Day edition. Inside there was a copy of that beautiful poem "In Flanders Fields," by the poet and soldier John MacRae in his own handwriting and written on the very day that I was born, Dec. 8, 1915.

My late husband always thought there was a relationship between the poet and this family, but nobody ever tried to find out.

My husband's great grandfather was a pipe major in the Seaforth Highlanders, born in Kintail, Rosshire in 1755. By his first marriage to a Miss MacKenzie from Applecross he had two sons who followed him into the Army as pipers. They were Alexander and John MacRae, and the poet may be descended from one of these.

Donald Roy married again when he was 80, and my husband was descended from this second union. The bride was only 26 and they had these children!

In an old book of the Clan MacRae Association I see that in 1925 that the Honorary President was Colonel David MacRae, Guelph, Canada, father of the late Lieut. Colonel John MacRae. I would love to hear if these are descendants there with Rosshire connections, if you have any way of tracing them.

I have recited that beautiful poem in church on Armistice Sunday. It means a lot to me, as my own father, a gunner in the Royal Garrison Artillery, served throughout the First World War, only to die of "flue and pneumonia in Salonika" (Greece). He was 27 and I was three years old and my sister only six months. I have visited his grave at Garpol, so remembrance has meant something real to me all my life.

I am a poet myself and have always been affected by words like "Flanders Fields" which pull at my heartstrings.

Please forgive me if this is asking too much of you, but I feel your paper was really meant to reach me.

I have just passed the 70 mark. My husband, a fishing skipper, died nine years ago. His name was Evander MacRae. They spell this surname in different ways.

Yours sincerely,
Helen MacRae

Editor's Note: Mrs. MacRae's letter has been forwarded to the Guelph, Ont. Mercury, in the event they may consider publishing it. Voxair readers who may have some information to provide may forward it to Voxair, which will be passed to Mrs. MacRae.

Dear Sir:

I am writing to ask your special assistance in our quest to contact all former members of 715 Royal Canadian Air Cadet Squadron, Burlington. In May, 1986, we celebrate our 25th Anniversary and somewhere out there are more than 1500 former 715 Squadron cadets.

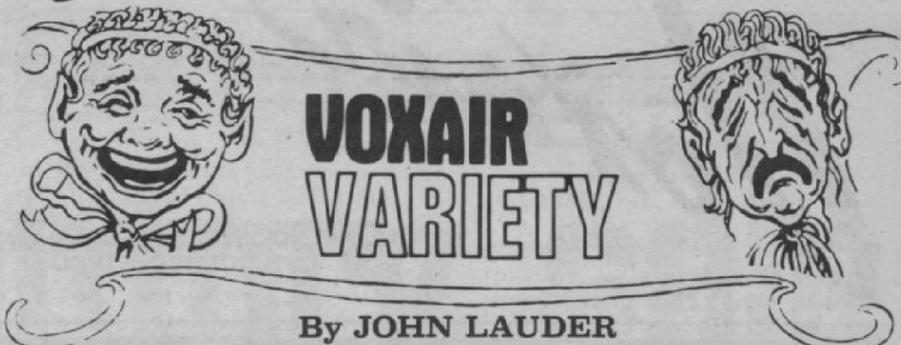

All former Cadets are invited to return for the Squadron "Silver Anniversary Homecoming" on Saturday and Sunday, 24/25 May, 1986 at the Royal Canadian Legion, 828 Legion Road in Burlington.

A 'drop in' reception will be held from noon to midnight on Saturday 24 May and Annual Inspection will be at 2 pm (1400 hours) on Sunday, 25 May. Our first Commanding Officer and founder, Flight Lieutenant A.E. Brown, DFC., AE., CD, will be our Reviewing Officer ably assisted by all the other former Commanding Officers of 715 RC (Air)CS.

It would be appreciated if you could publicize the "homecoming" and ask that all former 715 Squadron members contact me at:

715 RC(Air)C Squadron,
P.O. Box 188, Station 'A',
Burlington, Ontario, L7R 3Y2
(Telephone (416) 335-2946)

Yours sincerely,
W.M. Smith,
Captain,
Commanding Officer

"Enchanting" says Supercritic, the girl who sits next to me at the theatre, regarding the play currently running at the Manitoba Theatre Centre. This is Tsymbaly, the story of a Ukrainian boy's progress in the world. Originally from a small town in Manitoba, the lad rises to prominence in Vancouver, in spite of his marriage to a girl from the other side of the tracks.

On opening night the audience fully agreed with Supercritic, in that they gave a standing ovation to the cast at the end of the show. Such ovations are very rare at MTC, and it is hard to find causes other than perfection. Possibly it was because the play sponsored by the Institute of Chartered Accountants of Manitoba — but surely they are not all Ukrainian by birth. So I rule out racial bias as a cause, and go with excellence.

This is a gentle play, with a number of musical numbers mixed in, telling the story of a Manitoba farm boy who gets an education and then moves away from his homeland, only to find that the old ways are maybe the best. The Sun called it "Fiddler on the Roofski," as it parallels the show of Russian life. Only three more days remain; it closes January 25th, but it is worth a visit.

At the Warehouse theatre a different type of production opened on January 15th, and will run to February 1st. This is One in a Million, a comedy drama telling of a girl's preoccupation with the million-dollar lottery. Set in Nova Scotia, but written by Manitoba-born T.H. Hatte, this comic effort has a cast of five who became involved in some earthquake changes to a marriage, and complications from outside sources.

The Royal Winnipeg Ballet is off on tour to B.C. and Alberta, with a stop at Seattle, Washington. They will perform mixed programmes which incorporate a wide variety of styles and moods, from classics to contemporary.

And speaking of the Ballet, reader Major R.K. Ferguson tells me that he has a second opinion on my appraisal of the Christmas number "Nutcracker." Apparently he shelled out a great deal of money to take his family to the performance, thinking that it was a standard Nutcracker long in the repertoire of many ballet companies throughout the world. However, since 1972, the Royal Winnipeg has offered the John Neumeier version, which is quite different. For several years this was danced each Christmas, so we got used to it, and of late it has been offered every two years. But no permanent resident of the city has questioned this policy, and most enjoy the show they see.

I will leave it to Mr. Riske, the General Manager of the Ballet to respond to the good Major, and make sure in the future that we always say that this is the Neumeier choreography, as I believe most of the papers did this year.

What hurts, of course, is that my 10-year old granddaughter liked the RWB version, and that others found it a disappointment. One man's meat is another man's poisson, as the bilingual lads say.

It is a pity that recent in-fighting has caused the long-time ticket offices in the Bay and Eaton's to close down and get out of the selling business. The City got smart, some say too smart, and put in a computer-run system to sell hockey tickets, and/or tickets to arena events. This caused the old time ATO and CBO to go bankrupt, and left the city-sponsored Select-A-Seat the only game in town. It is efficient, but not necessarily convenient. They have outlets downtown, too, one in Winnipeg Square and one in the Convention Centre, also in Garden City, Grant Park Plaza and Southwood Mall. They do take telephone calls at 786-7071, and they do take credit cards, but you are limited if you want to pick up your tickets.

The Winnipeg Symphony (more below) has come up with a new idea for raising money. For a $25.00 donation, they will give you a chance on a trip for two to Singapore, plus other discounts for books, flowers and drycleaning. Shelling out more money gives you even more bargains, and it is all tax deductible.

Apologies to Hazel Birt of the Manitoba Printmakers' Association, who sent me some notices regarding various art shows last year. The material did not reach me in time for publication. The best bet for anyone wishing space for notices in Voxair is to send it to the Editor, who is happy to print anything that relates to the military community.

Footlight footnotes — Upcoming at the Gas Station Theatre on Osborne Street is a show by the Sweet Adelines under the title of "Jolson, Jazz and All That Jive" this weekend at 8.30 p.m. on Friday and at 3.00 and 8.30 p.m. on Saturday. Next weekend the Contemporary Dancers Canada will offer four world premieres, with 8.30 p.m. shows from January 29th through to February 8th.

At the Centennial Concert Hall the Winnipeg Symphony will give concerts on the 24th and 25th, and again on the 31st and February 1st, with a concert for kids on February 2nd in the afternoon. On the 28th the Chai Folk Ensemble will perform, and over at the Arena the Ice Capades will be entertaining from to-night, January 22nd until Sunday the 26th.

A review

What DND and the CF did last year

1985 was a year of changes and new commitments for the Canadian Forces.

On February 27, Erik Nielsen, Deputy Prime Minister, was appointed Minister of National Defence. On August 20, Harvie Andre was appointed Associate Minister of National Defence. Mr. Nielsen is responsible for the major policy decisions of the Department, while Mr. Andre is concerned with the day-to-day operations.

While departmental officials worked on a defence policy review in preparation for the publication of a new White Paper, the government moved in several important areas. It increased Canada's contribution to NATO, it signed an agreement with the United States to modernize the North American Aerospace Defence (NORAD) radars, it agreed to a new peacekeeping commitment, and it announced measures to enhance Canadian sovereignty in the Arctic.

In keeping with the government's emphasis on defence, expenditures in 1985-86 are expected to be $9.4 billion, an increase of seven per cent over 1984-85.

NATO

On March 11, the Minister and the Secretary of State for External Affairs announced that the number of Canadian Forces personnel stationed in Europe would be increased by 1,220. The majority of the additional troops, who are mainly assigned to 4 Canadian Mechanized Brigade Group (4 CMBG), moved to the Federal Republic of Germany from Canada this past summer; the rest will be in place by the summer of 1986.

The ministers also announced that a separate infantry battalion in Canada would be designated to Allied Command Europe Mobile Force, Land, a multi-national NATO deterrent force intended to reinforce Europe during a crisis. This means the lead battalion of the Canadian Air/Sea Transportable (CAST) Brigade Group, which had also been responsible for the AMF(L) commitment, is now dedicated solely to reinforcing Norway.

In addition to increasing the number of troops stationed in Europe, the Department of National Defence also enhanced its NATO commitment to starting to re-equip its NATO-assigned air squadrons with the new CF-18 fighter aircraft.

In July, 409 Squadron, previously operational at Canadian Forces Base (CFB) Cold Lake, Alta., moved to CFB Baden-Soellingen, FRG, and formed the first of three NATO-dedicated squadrons of 1 Canadian Air Group No. 439 Squadron, also based at Baden-Soellingen, received its complement of CF-18 aircraft and began combat-readiness training in December.

Official ceremonies to celebrate the CF-18's introduction to Europe were held October 31. Military and civilian officials from the NATO countries attended the event presided over by Defence Minister Nielsen.

On May 8, the government announced the names of finalists bidding to supply the Canadian Forces with a Low-Level Air Defence system. Three consortia — AB Bofors, of Sweden, with Canadian Marconi Co.; Contraves AG, of Switzerland, with Raytheon Canada; and Machine Tool Works Oerlikon-Burhle Ltd., of Switzerland, with Litton Systems Canada — now are in the final phase of the competition.

DND is looking for an anti-aircraft system to protect its mobile brigade in Norway, 4 CMBG in FRG, and the airfields at Lahr and Baden-Soellingen, FRG. The three finalists have submitted bids that include a variety of gun, missile and electronic systems, together with industrial benefits packages. Winner of the $600-million contract is expected to be announced in March, 1986, with delivery to begin in 1988.

The government nominated Goose Bay, Labrador, as a possible site for the NATO Tactical Fighter Weapons Centre, which would provide an increased level of tactical air training for NATO nations. The Canadian offer contends that Goose Bay would make an ideal NATO training centre because it is surrounded by wilderness, is favoured with good weather conditions and already has large, low-level training areas totalling 100,000 sq. km., which are in use by the British, Canadian and German military forces. Goose Bay is less than five hours flying time from Europe.

In June, the government announced a $93-million development plan for the Goose Bay airport and the neighbouring community of Happy Valley. DND is contributing $30 million to the plan which extends over the 1985-1995 period and is designed to meet the current level of military activity, as well as any increase in the use of Goose Bay airport. The plan will create more than 800 jobs and add $66 million annually to the area's economy.

As part of its NATO commitment, Canada agreed in 1983 to test the Air-Launched Cruise Missile (ALCM) over Canadian Territory. In accordance with the Canada-U.S. Test and Evaluation Agreement, three tests of the unarmed ALCM were conducted in January and February of 1985.

In the first test, the ALCM remained tethered to a B-52 aircraft and its navigational data was used to control the flight. For the second and third tests, the ALCM was free-flying and accompanied by two aircraft, as well as an AWACS aircraft. All three tests originated over the Beaufort Sea and ended at the Primrose Lake Evaluation Range near CFB Cold Lake, Alta. All the tests were successful.

NORAD

Canada and the U.S. signed an agreement on a North American Air Defence Modernization Plan in Quebec City, March 18.

The agreement follows a joint Canada-U.S. study on the type of threat the North American continent is likely to face in the future, and the type of equipment it will need to cope with that threat. Accordingly, Canada and the U.S. have decided to build new early-warning radars in the north and over-the-horizon-backscatter (OTH-B) radars at three sites in the United States and to upgrade selected northern airfields to allow the deployment of Airborne Warning and Control System (AWACS) aircraft and fighter aircraft in northern Canada.

To detect intrusions into North American airspace, NORAD currently relies on 31 Distant Early Warning (DEW) Line radars (21 of which are in Canada) and 24 Pinetree Radar stations, all of which were built in the 1950s. The DEW Line is operated by the U.S. Air Force, with Canadian involvement limited to small detachments of military personnel at four of the 21 Canadian sites — Cape Dyer, Hall Beach, Cambridge Bay, and Cape Parry. To assist with identification, Canada and the U.S. maintain squadrons of fighter aircraft dedicated to North American defence. Canada currently is re-equipping its squadrons with CF-18 aircraft.

Air Command Band Christmas Concert sets seasonal mood

Anybody lacking the Christmas spirit quickly re-captured it a few days before the event if they were among the 400-strong audience at the annual Air Command Christmas Concert Dec. 15, in Building 21.

That included Winnipeg Mayor Bill Norrie, LGen. Donald M. McNaughton, Commander of Air Command, and CFB Winnipeg base commander, Col. S.E. McGowan.

The audience translated their appreciation into a $450. collection and two large boxes of food for the Christmas Cheer Board, delivered by WO Mike Brazeau, mayor of the CFB Winnipeg Community Council.

The Band attribute a big part of the concert's success to the lighting arrangements by Westsun Media, which also handled the lighting for last summer's tattoo.

Also singled out for praise was Winnipeg songstress Yvette Shaw.

More - CF 1985 review

The new northern radar system, called the North Warning System (NWS), will allow NORAD to detect aircraft and cruise missiles penetrating North American airspace at both high and low altitudes. It will replace the DEW Line.

The Canadian portion of the NWS will consist of 11 long-range radars and 36 unmanned short-range radars in the Canadian Arctic and the coast of Labrador. Canada will be responsible for all construction and communications in Canada, and for actual operation and maintenance of the Canadian portion of the NWS. The new system is expected to be operational by 1992.

Canada will pay 40 per cent of the $1.5 billion cost of modernizing the northern radar system. More than 11,500 person-years of employment will be generated during the eight-year modernization program.

A $268.6-million contract was awarded to a Canadian consortium comprised of CANAC Consultants Ltd., of Toronto, and MICROTTEL Ltd., of Burnaby, B.C., for the supply of communications equipment for the North Warning System (NWS).

Seventeen of the 24 long-range radars in the Pinetree Line, which runs across southern Canada from Gander, Nfld., to Holberg, B.C., will be closed because they are too far south to cope with the current and future threat. Canada and the U.S. will share the costs of closing these stations on a 45-55 basis and DND will work closely with the affected communities to lessen the impact.

The U.S. will be paying for, and deploying on its territory, three OTH-B radars, and will operate and maintain the AWACS aircraft designated for NORAD use. The OTH-B radars will be jointly manned by Canadian and American personnel. In addition, the number of Canadian military personnel currently assigned to NORAD AWACS operations is expected to increase.

Canada and the U.S. have participated in NORAD since 1958. The NORAD Agreement, which usually runs for five years, is up for renewal next May. The objectives of NORAD are to safeguard the sovereignty of airspace in Canada and the United States and to contribute to the deterrence of an attack on North America by providing aerospace surveillance, warning and attack characterization and, should deterrence fail, to respond with the military forces of both countries.

Peacekeeping

In April, Canada agreed to provide up to 140 personnel and nine unarmed CH-135 'Twin Huey' helicopters to the Multi-national Force and Observer Group (MFO) in the Sinai. The MFO was established in 1979, outside the United Nations framework, to monitor the Camp David Accords signed by Egypt and Israel. There are 11 countries participating in the MFO. Canada will replace the Australian contingent on April 25, 1986.

The Canadian Forces helicopter unit will transport observers on their verification tasks, transport personnel and supplies to remote areas, conduct medical evacuations and search and rescue operations. In addition, some of the Canadian personnel will be employed on the MFO Commander's staff.

Canada will absorb the $5.5-million annual cost, which would be incurred if the troops and equipment were serving in their normal duties. The $5.9-million annual cost arising from specific tasks with respect to the MFO will be recovered.

By participating in the MFO, Canada is demonstrating its commitment to assist in the search for peace and stability in the Middle East.

Canadian personnel also continued to serve with the United Nations peacekeeping forces. In the Canadian Forces' 43rd rotation to Cyprus, the 3rd Bataillon, Royal 22e Régiment (3 R22eR) from CFB Valcartier, Que., took over from the 1st Battalion, The Royal Canadian Regiment (1 RCR) from London, Ont., during the period February 26 - March 15. In September, the 2nd Regiment, Royal Canadian Horse Artillery, based at Petawawa, Ont., replaced 3 R22eR. Canadian Forces personnel have served with the United Nations peacekeeping force in Cyprus since March 1964.

Two hundred Canadian servicemen continue to serve with the United Nations observer force on the Golan Heights and the Canadian Forces contributed officers, men and equipment to peacekeeping units in Korea, India-Pakistan, and elsewhere in the Middle East.

Sovereignty protection

In September, the government announced new sovereignty protection measures for the 3.9 million square kilometers that comprise the Canadian north. These measures included the drawing of formal boundaries, straight baselines around the vast Arctic archipelago; the construction of a Polar Class 8 icebreaker capable of year-round patrols in the Arctic; and the introduction of legislation extending jurisdiction of Canadian law to the Arctic offshore.

In addition, the government assigned the Canadian Forces greater responsibility in the north. In accordance with this plan, DND is increasing the number of sovereignty flights by CP-140 aircraft over the Arctic, and Maritime Command is planning naval exercises in the Eastern Arctic for the next year. Mobile Command, which has long maintained an active presence in the Arctic, conducted six company-level exercises in the North over the past year.

During 1985, Northern Region Headquarters staff continued their regular activities and visits to communities in the North. The presence of the Canadian Rangers, as well as the conduct of Regular Force exercises in isolated areas, continued to support national goals and help assert Canadian sovereignty.

Off the Atlantic and Pacific coasts, ships and aircrafts of Maritime Command assist in fisheries patrols. Air surveillance is conducted primarily by the medium-range CP-121 Tracker aircraft, supplemented by the CP-140 Aurora aircraft.

Equipment

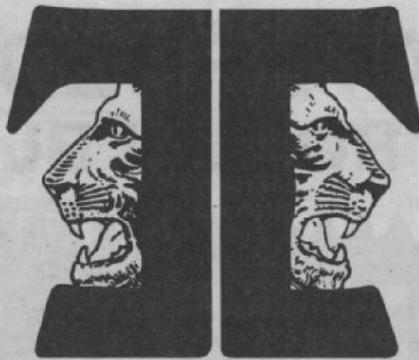

Defence expenditures are widely distributed across the Canadian economy and benefit an extensive range of industrial activity. DND says opportunities to stimulate industry and foster economic growth are considerable, whether achieved by direct procurement of goods and services in Canada or by offsets for purchases made abroad. The magnitude and breadth of resources allocated to defence make DND expenditures a significant factor in industrial development and job creation. In 1985-86, 27 per cent of the defence budget was allocated to equipment and construction.

In January, DND signed a $17.65-million contract with General Motors of London, Ont., for 11 Allison 570KF marine engines to replace the cruising engines on the four DDH-280 destroyers. The engines will be delivered in the summer and fall of 1986.

Litton Systems Canada Ltd., of Toronto completed a project definition phase for the Tribal Update and Modernization Project (TRUMP). Under TRUMP, the four Tribal Class destroyers which entered service in 1972-73 will be updated and their air defence capabilities enhanced. In the project definition, Litton Systems assessed the equipment options, performance and costs. Plans call for the awarding of an implementation contract in the near future. Work on the first ship will begin in 1987; the last ship is expected to be completed in 1991.

In March, DND awarded a $183-million contract to Canadair Ltd., of Montreal, for the purchase of 12 additional CL-601 Challenger aircraft over the next two years. With this procurement, the Canadian Forces will operate a fleet of 15 Challengers.

Four Challenger long-range aircraft will replace the CC-117 Falcon aircraft currently in service with 412 Transport Squadron at CFB Ottawa. The new aircraft can also be configured for medical evacuation. Seven Challenger aircraft will be reconfigured to replace the Falcons used for electronic warfare training and operations by 414 Electronic Warfare Squadron at CFB North Bay, Ont. The remaining Challenger aircraft will serve as an avionics test-bed aircraft at the Aerospace Engineering Test Establishment at CFB Cold Lake.

In April, Air Command took delivery of two new CC-130H Hercules transport aircraft.

That same month, the last of the 18 E-3A Sentry Airborne Early Warning aircraft was delivered to NATO. Canada's contribution to the acquisition of the 18 aircraft and to the military personnel requirements of the NATO Airborne Early Warning (NAEW) Force is the third largest after the United States and the Federal Republic of Germany. In addition to its financial contributions for acquisition, operations and maintenance, Canada will provide up to a maximum of 160 military personnel for duties with the NAEW Force and the E-3A Component Canadian National Support Unit.

Work on the six-ship Canadian Patrol (CPF) program continued and in May the first cutting of steel signified the start of construction. Production of the lead ship is scheduled for 1989.

DND is buying 87 M113 armoured personnel carriers (APC) and associated support equipment for various land units at a total project cost of $37.1 million. The new equipment will replenish the current M113 APC inventory, and will ensure sufficient reserves to meet operational requirements of infantry and other land units.

To enable the Reserve Force to train with the same equipment as the Regular Force, DND is buying 66 military portable artillery computers (MiliPAC) for militia artillery units. Computing Devices of Canada in Nepean, Ont., received the $4.5-million contract in May, and will deliver the computers by mid-1986.

Also in May, DND signed a $40-million contract with Leigh Instruments Ltd. of Ottawa, for the provision of 40 state-of-the-art replacement Tactical Air Navigation (TACAN) beacons, with an option to provide an additional 20 beacons.

As part of the Artillery Improvement Program, DND signed a $27.3-million contract in June with Bendix Avelex, Inc., of Montreal for 24 Gun Alignment and Control Systems (GACS). The GACS, which consist of three sub-systems — an infrared laser, a data transmission mechanism and a loudspeaker — will be delivered by early 1989.

In August, DND awarded a $15.7-million contract to the Logistic Equipment Division of Bombardier Inc., of Valcourt, Que., for the production of 600 military pattern light utility trucks, designated 'Iltis Canadian'. The contract includes spare parts, tooling and contract support services. The new vehicles will augment the 1983 purchase of 1,900 Iltis by the same manufacturer.

To enhance the readiness and sustainability of the new CF-18 fighter aircraft, DND is buying 184 AIM-7M Sparrow radar guided missiles and 180 AIM-9M Sidewinder heat-seeking missiles at a cost of $80 million. Deliveries will begin in late 1986 and be completed by early 1989. The missiles are in addition to the initial suit of weapons obtained with the CF-18 under the original contract.

In September, Treasury Board approved a $41-million contract of additional Mark 46 Mod 5 torpedoes. The new torpedoes will replace the older, less capable Mark 44s currently carried by Canadian Forces' ships, helicopters and maritime patrol aircraft.

In October, DND signed a $77.5-million contract for six Dash-8 aircraft. Four of the aircraft will replace Hercules aircraft used at the Canadian Forces Aerospace and Navigational School in Winnipeg and the remaining two will replace the Dash-7s currently in use by the Canadian Forces in Europe.

DND also signed a $90-million contract with the U.S. Navy to purchase Mark 48 Mod 4 torpedoes from the U.S. Department of Defence. The new torpedoes will replace the Mark 37s currently in service with Canada's three Oberon Class submarines.

To ensure that DND's 30 major warships and more than 120 auxiliary vessels remain operational, regularly-scheduled maintenance is carried out. Ship's staffs perform on-board preventive and corrective maintenance, while major refits are conducted at the naval Ship Repair Units in Halifax and Esquimalt, B.C., or at commercial ship-repair yards located across Canada.

The Destroyer Life Extension Program (DELEX) is in its final stages. After a delay caused by a strike, Marine Industries Ltd. completed the refit of HMCS Assiniboine in November and Versatile Vickers completed HMCS Saguenay the same month. MIL will complete the refit of their sister ship, HMCS Margaree, by April 1986.

Saint John Shipbuilding Ltd. has been awarded a $21.6-million contract to refit HMCS Annapolis and Versatile Pacific Inc. has the contract to refit HMCS Saskatchewan. Versatile Vickers Inc. was awarded a $12.2-million contract to refit the supply ship HMCS Preserver.

During 1985, DND completed the installation of communications equipment purchased under a $3.9-million Microwave Radio Replacement Program. The new equipment replaced obsolete microwave systems, which provided air, and search and rescue communications, at CF Bases Edmonton and Trenton, Ont. It also replaced ship-to-shore systems operating between CFS Aldergrove, B.C., and its transmitter site at Matsqui, B.C.

The Military Aeronautical Communications System provides high-frequency communications for Air and Maritime Commands. DND signed a contract for the system in 1983 with Rockwell International of Canada Ltd. During 1985, it was installed at the CF School of Communications and Electronics at CFB Kingston, Ont. and at CF Bases Trenton, Lahar, and Baden-Soellingen, as well as CF Stations St. John's, Nfld., Mill Cove, N.S., and the Naval Radio Station at Newport Corners, N.S. The system will be installed at the remaining sites, CFB Edmonton and CF Stations Aldergrove and Matsqui, early in 1986.

The year 1985 marked the third full year of CF-18 operations. By year's end, 73 of the 138 aircraft ordered from McDonnell Douglas had been delivered. Deliveries will continue at the rate of two per month until the last aircraft is received in September, 1988.

Personnel

The year also marked the 100th anniversary of the participation of women in the Canadian Forces. Canada is, with a handful of other nations, at the forefront of the employment of women in military service.

The number of women serving in the Canadian Forces has risen from a controlled ceiling of 1,500 in 1971 to over 7,300 today, which represents 8.9 per cent of the Regular Force. Within NATO, only the United States, with 9.5 per cent, has a higher percentage of women in the military.

Women officers in the Canadian Forces may be employed in 24 of 33 officer classifications and non-commissioned servicewomen may serve in 62 of the 99 trades. Terms and conditions of service are generally the same for both men and women. Since the role of women in the Canadian Forces has only expanded in the last 15 years, the number of women serving in senior positions is naturally limited, but it is steadily increasing.

DND has recently concluded a four-part series of trials to test the effects of employing service women in near-combat roles. Women served on a fleet diving ship, HMCS Cormorant, with 4 Service Battalion and 4 Field Ambulance in FRG, as pilots, navigators, and flight engineers with Air Command, and on an isolated posting at CFS Alert, Ellesmere Island. DND now is gathering all the information from each of the trials and will compile an overall report from which a comprehensive policy on the employment of women can be developed.

In February, 1985, DND unveiled the new separate force uniforms to be issued to the military over the next three years.

While retaining the unified force structure, the sea element will be issued with dark blue uniforms, the land element will wear green, and the air element will have light blue uniforms.

The cuts of the land and air uniforms will be the same as the present Canadian Forces uniform, but with the addition of epaulettes for the former. The sea element will wear a double-breasted jacket. The Canadian Forces remains a unified structure, hence rank symbology will remain the same.

There will be both winter and summer dress, with the lighter weight summer versions for the elements being white for the sea, tan for the land, and light blue for the air.

DND continued its involvement in summer employment initiatives. The Department allocated $32 million for the extension of the Canadian Forces Youth Training and Employment Program (YTEP) and $28 million for the renewal of a Civilian Temporary Employment Program (CTEP).

YTEP was enlarged in 1985 and by the end of March, 2,500 youths had received training and work experience under the program. It is open to men and women in the 17-25 age group. For one year they receive basic military training with emphasis on the acquisition of useful skills and trades such as marine engineering mechanic, medical assistant, or finance clerk.

CTEP provided temporary employment for 3,500 civilians. The program, open to both men and women, provides meaningful employment in the administrative support, general labour, minor maintenance and construction categories for an average period of six months.

DND also participated in several other government employment initiatives, and provided work and training for more than 11,650 youths under the Summer Youth Employment Program, Katimavik, the Student Summer Employment Program, the Co-operative Student Employment Program, and the Summer Internship Program.

Exercises and special events

The third divisional-level exercise in the 'Rendez-vous' series was conducted at Camp Wainwright and CFB Suffield, both located in Alberta, during the period April 15-June 29, 1985.

The biennial exercise involved army units of Mobile Command and aircraft from 10 Tactical Air Group, as well as a number of personnel from Communication Command. Three aircraft squadrons and one infantry battalion task force from the U.S. also participated. It was the largest exercise of the Rendez-vous series to date, involving approximately 90 aircraft, 4,000 vehicles and 14,000 troops, including 1,000 Reserves.

Aim of RV 85 was the exercise all regular formations and units from Mobile Command in all phases of war (the advance, attack, defence, and withdrawal) up to and including division level.

The year marked the Navy's 75th anniversary year. In celebration, numerous events, ranging from plaque unveilings to grand fleet assemblies, were held around the country. A major event of the year-long celebration was the Canadian Forces Tattoo in 1985, which began its 11 city tour in Saint John, N.B., on July 5.

"A salute to Canada's naval service" was the theme of the tattoo. The distinctly Canadian show included 20 separate scenes of precision military displays, rugged competition, top professional military music, pipe bands, dancing, and gymnastics.

Maritime Command organized and funded the tattoo. With a core of 525 military personnel and as many as 250 local military and civilian performers, the Canadian Forces Tattoo 1985 was the largest show to go on tour since 1967. More than 200,000 witnessed this entertainment spectacular.

The year also was the 15th anniversary year of the Canadian Forces flight demonstration team, the Snowbirds. The Snowbirds and the parachute team, the Sky Hawks gave approximately 70 performances each across Canada and the United States, including participation in eight major national air shows.

In July, the Snowbirds received the 'Spirit of Flight Award' from the National Aviation Hall of Fame in Dayton, Ohio, in recognition of the team's promotion of aviation awareness throughout North America.

Again in this edition of the Voxair we are publishing the schedules of the Base's Recreation Centers. It should be noted that in order to offer the best possible service and at a minimum cost for the Recreation Council, which has to pay for the monitors, we made a few changes to better respond to the needs of the military community. These changes include opening the pools on alternating nights and on weekends.

Another change that might interest you is that we have added two squash courts located in building 90 at no cost to other services already being offered at building 90. During the day, like the rest of the facilities, the courts will be reserved for military training, sport and recreation programs. At night, after 1800 hrs, the courts will be reserved for Recreation Association members.

Bookings may be made by phone (5511) or in person. Players should be familiar with the rules that are posted at the door of the courts. The basic rules are that bookings will be taken daily only, individuals will not be allowed to book at the same time every day, especially at prime time, no double bookings, and abuse of the equipment will not be tolerated.

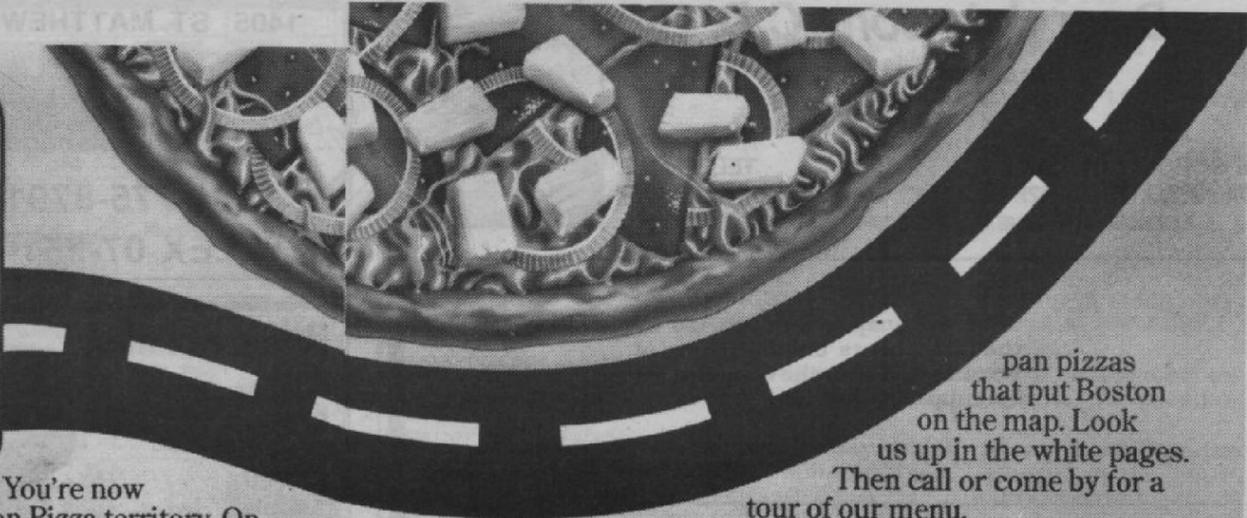

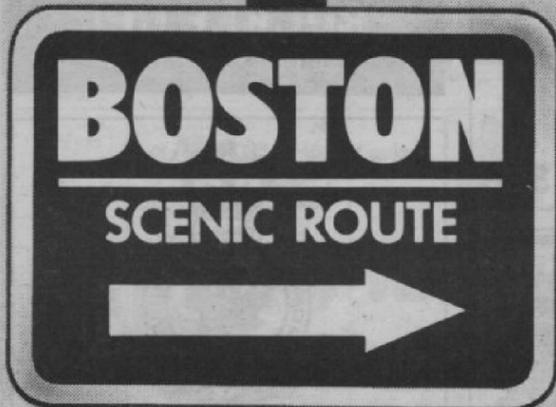

We hope these changes will further add to the existing fitness and recreation options offered to you by this base. Good health in 1986 and stay active.

Team bowling roll-offs

A bowling roll-off was held in Building 90's bowling alleys on December 3, 4 and 5, 1985. A total of 20 base personnel battled for one of the six positions on the Base team. The top six bowlers will represent CFB Winnipeg in the Prairie Region Bowling Championship to be held in Portage La Prairie, January 20 to 25 1986. Our representatives are:

- MCpl Ron Borden, average 252.2
- WO Bob Sypulski, average 234.8
- MCpl Ralph Rumbolt, average 233.1
- MCpl Rick Dyck, average 230.8
- MCpl Stan Boughner, average 228.5
- MCpl Dick Couzens, average 225.6

Congratulations to all and the best of luck to our team when it plays in Portage La Prairie.

You're now entering Boston Pizza territory. On your left you'll find the piping hot cheese, following the captivating crust, you'll notice the special sauces, spices and over there the juicy meats and fresh veggie toppings. All part of the famous array of pan pizzas that put Boston on the map. Look us up in the white pages. Then call or come by for a tour of our menu.

Husband: My wife ran away with my best friend.
 Buddy: Was he good looking?
 Husband: Don't know; never met the man.

Mrs. Green: You seem rather hoarse this morning, Mrs. Henry.
 Mrs. Henry: Yes, my husband came home rather late last night.

Attention

South Site families

The skating rink is being flooded and will be available soon for use by residents. We need volunteers to act as monitors during the hours of operation of the change room.

Last year there were not enough volunteers, so the change room was not opened.

We need at least 12 volunteers so that we can make a schedule. The volunteers should be 18 years of age and be residents of PMQ's.

The proposed schedule for the rink is Mon., Tues., Thurs. 1800-2100, Wed. 1630-1800, Sat. & Sun. 1400-1700.

Please phone Jim Kerr, 489-7833, or local 5457. Remember, no volunteers, no change room.

Aerospace Warfare Squadron news

It has been very quiet at the Aerospace Warfare Squadron over the Christmas holidays. Needless to say, all the staff enjoyed a well deserved break! Sqn Leader Ferries took the liberty to initiate the town of Banff, Alberta to his new Rodeo Song. It was also reported that record profits for night clubs were made during his stay in Banff. Wondering what happened? By the way, the RAF downhill racing team hasn't substantiated any rumour to the effect that our loved one (Ian) had been selected for their prestigious team. Still wondering where these rumours come from?

On a more serious note, Capt J. Neron and his wife (Marijosee) got their best Christmas present ever. They are now proud parents of a seven pound girl (Rachelle). She was born at the Health Sciences Centre at 8:07 am on the 17 Dec 85. Congratulations!

Like everybody else, the Aerospace Systems course members took a break for the holidays. On their return, those who had planned on doing nothing, and did exactly that, were reunited with their friends who had planned on doing something, but didn't. Actually, some people were busy. Suzanne and Dave Griffiths were a case in point. Congratulations to both on the arrival of Nathan! (Yes, folks, this is the same Dave Griffiths who went around saying 'never' a few years ago.)

While the course director is wondering if 'his boys' are becoming too serious, 'the boys' are putting forward new theories aimed at revolutionizing the world of mathematics, namely the Leggett principle of division by five and the Lawrie principle for powers of two. And who says we were losing our sense of humor! But there must be an end to all this good (sic!) time, and 'the boys' will soon have to depart on their third tour.

After all, you have to be tough to be an ASC member, don't you!
